

Quality Policy

It is the expressed policy of Dynacell Life Sciences, LLC to ensure that the products it develops, manufactures, and distributes are fit for their intended purpose and conform with the company's specifications and all relevant statutory requirements.

It is vital that all of Dynacell's employees fully appreciate that they are active participants in the successful execution and realization of total quality. The quality of the company's products is influenced by the actions of the manufacturing departments and the quality unit. Of equal importance, however, is quality in design and development, quality in marketing, quality in document preparation and processing, quality in service and customer relations, and quality in packaging and shipping – all of which are integral parts of the pursuit of total quality.

The company works in a high technology environment and seeks to project an image of quality and professionalism in all aspects of its existence. The development and fostering of universal quality consciousness within the company is essential to its long-term success.
